Last night we walked across the street to a party at the ZaZa where my husband spent the evening eating sushi with a Russian model. Hmm, never been able to get him to try exotic foods. Progress. Now wondering how to persuade Mr. Adventurous to use the stairs instead of taking the elevator to our new seventh-floor penthouse.

But, that's the Venue life.

After accepting an offer with a new company, I thought it would be the perfect time to throw a cocktail party and invite my formerly off-limits ex-boss over for drinks, canapes and the view. Should have rethought inviting Maria, my new neighbor from Rio who—turns out—is a sports attorney, runs the steps at Rice and is recently single. Just thankful I didn't throw a pool party.

But, that's the Venue life.
